

“Iron Swords”

Ori Ascher

Ori's Life motto:

Incomplete on the outside, whole on the inside.

Ori Ascher, born in 1997, lives in Kedomim in Samaria.

Until the "Iron Swords" war, Ori was engaged in the field of AI and business optimization.

On Simchat Torah, October 7, Ori and his tank team were enlisted to the north, where they spent the rest of the week training for the entrance to Gaza. After eight days, an order was received to move with the tank to Kibbutz Hanita on the northern border to join the war effort in the area.

12 hours after they arrived at their position, the tank next to them was hit by a "Coronet" anti-tank missile. Ori's team went to search for the shooters and took a direct hit as well.

Ori lost his left leg. Thereafter he began a long rehabilitation process, and after almost seven months, he left the hospital walking on one healthy leg and one prosthesis.

Today Ori returns to his business career. He is also busy lecturing about his injury, the rehabilitation process and how he has grown from it.

